

BONE MARROW

Bone marrow is a thick, spongy kind of jelly inside your bones.

Bone marrow makes all kinds of blood cells: red blood cells that carry oxygen, white blood cells that fight infections, and platelets that help blood clot.